Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 29 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dry with warm sunshine for most; some coasts cooler, misty.

Today:
Although many areas start rather cloudy, breaks should develop, allowing some warm sunshine into the afternoon. A few places in northern, central and western UK might catch a shower, while some northeastern and eastern coasts will be cooler and misty.

Tonight:
Isolated showers fading, then clear spells and the odd fog patch; generally cooler than Friday night. Some northeastern and eastern areas seeing more in the way of low cloud later.

Sunday:
Low cloud and mist dispersing, then most areas having seeing spells of warm sunshine. Perhaps a stray shower in the northwest, while a few eastern coasts remain chilly and misty.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Initially fine and very warm by day, although cooler with patchy low cloud along some windward coastlines. A band of rain, potentially thundery, moves northeast across the country midweek.
